

Vocabularies

CALLtalk

CALLtalk vocabulary was developed by Sally Millar of the CALL Centre and independent consultant Janet Larcher as part of a high-tech solution for communication. It is aimed at primary school aged children who have severe communication difficulties but with relatively good cognitive levels, enabling them to eventually construct sentences and ultimately read and write. Although children may not yet be at this level, CALLtalk's educational basis enables it to be used as an aid to developing these skills.
